DYSPEPSIA.

IS that misery experienced when we suddenly become aware that we possess a diabolical arrangement called a stomach. The stomach is the reservoir from which every fibre and tissue must be nourished, and any trouble with it is soon felt throughout the whole system. Among a dozen dyspeptics no two will have the same predominant symptoms. Dyspeptics of active mental power and a bilious temperament are subject to Sick Headache; those, fleshy and phlegmatic have Constipation, while the thin and nervous are abandoned to gloomy forebodings. Some dyspeptics are wonderfully forgetful; others have great irritability of temper.

Whatever form Dyspepsia may take, one thing is certain,

The underlying cause is in the LIVER, and one thing more is equally certain, no one will remain a dyspeptic who will

It will correct Acidity of the Stomach,
Expel foul gases,
Allay Irritation,
Assist Digestion,
and, at the same time

Start the Liver to working, when all other troubles soon disappear.

"My wife was a confirmed dyspeptic. Some three years ago by the advice of Dr. Steiner, of Augusta, she was induced to try Simmons Liver Regulator. I feel grateful for the relief it has given her, and may all who read this and are afflicted in any way, whether chronic or otherwise, use Simmons Liver Regulator and I feel confident health will be restored to all who will be advised."—WM. PIANOS.

GAINED FIRST PREMIUM FOR GREATEST merit at the New Orleans Cotton Centennial and WORLD'S Exposition for refined and wonderful power of tone, elegance of design, and superb finish. Only piano endorsed by United States commissioners, from each of the States. Cases finest carved, rosewood finish finest imported double repeating action—three strings throughout of best patent steel wire—keys best ivory. Our new patent steel tuning device, instead of wood, is the greatest invention ever made in pianos. It consists of stationary STEEL tuning pins that are set in a mold and molten STEEL is run round the pins keeping them solidly in place. A thimble or shell pin is made to exactly fit the stationary pin revolving therein; thus the strings wind round the pins. After the strings are properly stretched the piano can never get out of tune, the rest plank being of STEEL not affected by extremes of climate. This will be appreciated by all musicians in city or country. It will stand twenty years without tuning and is good for 100. No other piano has this improvement.

Great strength and durability is another advantage. In other pianos holes are bored in wooden boards and tuning pins inserted. The pins turn round in this board and cannot stand permanently in tune, and it often cracks, splits, dry s out, becoming utterly, totally and entirely worthless as a musical instrument. Our STEEL tuning device is in no way affected by such casualities, and the sounding board is so constructed that our pianos can never become thin or metallic in tone. They are always in tune and the expense of tunning is saved. This patent alone is worth millions and makes our piano the greatest in the world. Prices are no higher than other pianos. Buying direct from us, the largest manufacturers, you save $100 or $200—dealers' profits. Don't mind the ominous growlings of dealers and agents, who see their chances of selling a poor piano at a big profit of $200—slipping away—pity them.

We guarantee our pianos ten years. 200 styles. We have put our prices at lowest bed-rock for Cash.

A $600 Piano for $259.50; a $900 Piano for $297.50; a $1200 Piano for $375.50; a $1500 Piano for $475.50.

Upright Cabinet Grands, with stool and rubber cover shipped on board cars at S. F., to any part of the United States, Canada or Mexico. Our terms are cash with order. If not as represented money returned. We occassionally have good second-hand pianos, made over at $100 to $300, which we take in part payment for our own. Write or call for catalogue, free.

WAVES AND MIST.

This is the fancy that thrills through me
Like light through an open scroll;
The waves are the heart throbs of the sea,
And the white mist is her soul.
—William H. Hayne in The Century.

NO LONGER A MYSTERY.

Two miners prospecting in Sulphur gulch, in the coast range mountains, near San Felipe, discovered a grave containing the bones of a woman and many gold and silver trinkets.

This discovery has solved a mystery that for a long time has puzzled the inhabitants of the San Joaquin valley, as there is but little doubt that the remains were those of Zarifa Martinique, the daughter of Jose Martinique, who, fifteen years ago, was sheriff of Fresno county. In a small iron chest found buried by the side of the skeleton were several Spanish coins and a faded photograph which bore the woman's name.

The grave was discovered at the foot of a tall redwood tree at the head of the gulch, and was surrounded by bowlders that had rolled down from the mountains above. In the trunk of the redwood were the initials Z. M. and J. R., cut deeply, and as it seemed, with a sharp knife. The remains were taken to San Felipe and buried in a plat in the cemetery, where sleep her father, mother and two brothers.

There is a romance connected with the life of Zarifa Martinique that the pioneer settler of the San Joaquin valley never fails to relate to the visitor. As the story goes, she was a beautiful girl, with the grace of an American mother and the heat of Spanish ancestors in her disposition. No man in the San Joaquin valley could hold the bit in a horse's mouth with steadier hand than could Zarifa, and she rode like a queen with or without a saddle. She could shoot with the accuracy of a practiced marksman, and possessed a spirit as fearless as a lion. She was a perfect type of the wild western girl, but the inhabitants of San Felipe, among whom she had been born and reared, loved the harum-scarum girl, for there was always a bright smile on her pretty face, and in her bosom beat a heart as tender and sympathetic as that of a child.

At the age of 18 years Zarifa was loved and courted by Octave Morez, a young Spanish rancher in the valley who had accumulated a considerable fortune, and her father was anxious that his only daughter should become the wife of Octave, but Zarifa, when the subject was broached to her, angered her father and astonished her suitor by declaring that her heart had long ago been given to Jack Raymond, and she should never marry if she could not be his wife. Jack Raymond, upon whom the sheriff's daughter had bestowed her affection, was a handsome fellow, shiftless and daring, who divided his time between the gaming table and prospecting for gold among the hills. In the latter pursuit he was generally successful, in the former he was always unfortunate, so that he managed with but little trouble to keep his accounts balanced. No one accused Jack of being bad at heart, but he was looked upon as a fellow absolutely worthless to himself and everybody else. Jack and Zarifa had met, and between the handsome spendthrift and the beautiful girl had sprung up a mutual affection that was nursed until it grew to mad infatuation.

When Zarifa's father learned the trend of his daughter's love, he instituted a series of persecutions against Jack, in the hope of driving him from the country. He was frequently thrown into jail on petty charges, and as often set free after paying a heavy fine, for the courts were with the sheriff and the community was prejudiced against Jack, so that it was a hard matter for him to establish his innocence of any charge brought against him. But he had friends in his own class who stood faithfully by him.

These persecutions on the part of her father seemed only to strengthen the love of Zarifa for Jack, and her dislike for Morez grew into open hatred, which exasperated the young rancher beyond control, and he swore vengeance on Raymond, openly vowing to shoot him on sight if he ever again showed public recognition of Zarifa. One day, while Jack was seated by a table in a saloon conversing with friends, Morez came in much the worse for drink, and recognizing his rival uttered an oath, and, drawing his revolver, opened fire on him. Jack drew his own pistol and with unerring aim sent a bullet through his rival's heart. Knowing his popularity in that community, Jack fled the town, taking refuge in the mountains, and though diligent search was made for him under the direction of the sheriff, the hiding place of the refugee could not be found.

Zarifa never lost track of her lover. In Sulphur Gulch, under the old redwood where her remains were found, the two had met for months, and this trysting place had always been kept a secret between them. Here the two continued to meet after Jack was a fugitive from justice. Zarifa owned a horse, a fiery black animal, the gift of her father, and on this horse she was in the habit of taking daily rides through the valley. So persistently did she continue this custom after Jack's disappearance, and so long did she remain absent each day, the suspicions of her father were aroused, and through carefully following her he one day discovered the tryst, and a week later, with a posse of citizens, managed to capture Jack, who was taken back in triumph to San Felipe and lodged in prison.

Zarifa was inconsolable, for she knew that her father would never be satisfied until Jack was dead, and she knew he had sufficient influence in that community to carry out any plan he might form. She could see no escape for her lover. The jail in which he was imprisoned was carefully guarded and she could lend him no assistance, but she did not despair. She watched her father with the cunning of a cat.

The sheriff thirsted for Jack's blood, although he knew he had killed Morez in self defense, for he had ruined his prospects for becoming father-in-law to the richest rancher in the San Joaquin valley. His Spanish blood was up to white heat, and he spent day and night in the saloons of San Felipe haranguing against Jack Raymond and urging the citizens to see that in his case the ends of justice were not cheated. The words of the sheriff were effectual, for he was a man of influence and his utterances were not to be considered lightly. One night a mob with their brains aflame with whisky and the fiery speech of the sheriff set out with a rope for the jail, bent on lynching Raymond. The sheriff headed the mob, and this gave them courage. The jail was reached, and the jailer, seeing the determination of his visitors and recognizing in their leader the sheriff of the county, offered but little opposition, and Jack was soon in the hands of the howling mob, the object of kicks, threats and curses.

The night was well calculated for such work. The rainy season had set in, and a sky heavy with clouds hung over the valley. A strong wind came down from the mountains, driving before it a drenching rain. The night was black, and a half dozen lanterns carried by the mob did but little toward dispelling the gloom about them. In the eastern outskirts of the town stood a tall eucalyptus tree, and toward this they dragged their helpless victim. They were soon there and the rope thrown over a limb.

Jack had stood the ordeal without a murmur. He looked defiance at the crowd around him, and when the sheriff asked in a thick voice if he had anything to say before the noose was placed about his neck he replied firmly, "Nothing."

"String 'im up, then, boys," yelled the sheriff, "let's git rid of 'im as soon as we can; it's too d—d wet and cold to be foolin' around here."

The noose was quickly adjusted about Jack's neck, around him was a living circle and at the other end of the rope stood a dozen sturdy men, anxiously waiting for the sheriff to give the signal to settle back on it. He was but a single step from eternity. The half dozen lanterns fluttered and gasped in the rain and surrounded the victim with a weird, ghastly halo. "When I count three, boys," said the sheriff, "pull back on 'im," and immediately he cried "one," and then "two," his voice had just begun to swell into the "three," and the men at the end of the rope with tightening muscles had just begun to brace themselves for a "long pull and a strong pull," when there was the clatter of galloping feet and the rush of a black lady through the lines into the middle of the circle. Before the half paralyzed mob could recover its senses the sheriff's daughter had cut the ropes that encircled her lover's neck and bound his hands. She shouted to him to mount the horse in front of her. He was up in an instant, and before the men sent sprawling in the mud by the horse had recovered their senses Jack and the sheriff's daughter were rattling away through the darkness with the speed of the wind toward the mountains. Several shots were sent into the darkness after them, but they went wide of the mark.

From that night to the day her remains were discovered Zarifa Martinique was never seen by the inhabitants of the San Joaquin valley, nor could the retreat of her lover, who became a notorious outlaw, be discovered. Three fingered Jack, as Raymond came to be known in after years, became the terror of the San Joaquin valley, and no less than seven of the men who had attempted to lynch him were sent to their graves by bullets from his rifle. Eight years ago he was captured in a desperate saloon fight in Red Cliff and hanged for his crimes. Before his execution he sent for Jose Martinique, and in an interview told him that his daughter had lived with him five years, then died, and that he had buried her remains in the mountains near his retreat, where nobody could find and disturb them. On the gallows he cursed Martinique roundly, and charged him with being the cause of his turning his hand against the law and the people.

Jose Martinique became demented and roamed among the mountains, continually searching for the grave of his child. His body was found one morning at the bottom of Sulphur Gulch, where he had died of exposure and exhaustion.—Chicago Herald.

Women Who Drive Horses.

Any man who knows horses knows that it is a job for a muscular and clear headed man to control a spirited animal in harness. Even a fair quality of livery stable trotter will give his driver stout work in an afternoon drive, and if he gets scared and takes the bit between his teeth he will make ugly work of it. Yet in this city, and in the fashionable watering places, you will see women calmly perched on the box seat and handling the ribbons over animals which they could no more direct or restrain, if the animals did not wish it, than they could make the tides halt or the sun stand still.

Whenever old Commodore Vanderbilt, who could handle the wildest horses with hands of steel, was out behind his cracks, and saw a woman driving toward him on the road, he used to draw out and give her plenty of room. "There's not room for us two out here," he used to say, and most horsemen would have agreed with him. You can create a panic on the Harlem lane any day by sending a woman out to drive among the horsemen. I often stroll in the park, and it seems to me that I never do so without witnessing some flurry in the drive—a difference of opinion between a driving woman and her horse that results in either an accident or a narrow escape. There are plenty of horses which women can drive safely, but these no woman with any pretensions to style wants to drive. The family horse has gone out of fashion with the jog trot. Society now wants to travel at a high step and full speed. The girl fresh from school requires a Galway wall topper harnessed to her phaeton, and her mother cannot enjoy her airing on wheels without having an iron jawed, fiddlestring nerved, thoroughbred, that it would be hard work for a life guardsman to handle, to haul her. Even the fashionable child has outgrown the pony carriage and the Shetland, and goes in for mettled horseflesh that would scarcely be safe in the hands of his father. And still there are people, no doubt, who wonder when disaster waits on folly, and accident accepts the invitation so freely offered it.—Alfred Trumble in New York News.

Keeping Domestics in Order.

I heard of one Parisian lady who dismisses every servant in her employ every six months. Her theory is that the constant renewal of her household personnel tends to keep her domestics in good order. She gets the cream, so to speak, of their services, and just about the time they settle down into lazy habits she gets rid of them. But in less extensively appointed establishments there are plenty of good steady girls to be met with, who know how to work and who do their work faithfully and conscientiously. The worst class of the French servants are to be met with in the grandest of Parisian houses; the best keep on the even tenor of their way in quiet households where two, or at the most three, servants are kept. And Marie in Paris has one overwhelming advantage over Bridget, Gretchen or Dinah in the United States: whatever she undertakes to do she knows how to do. She has her faults, and they are grave ones, occasionally, but lack of capacity to perform the service for which she has engaged herself is not among them.—Mrs. Frank Leslie.

Not a Dead Language.

A traveler in Greece says that the Greek language has never died, some few learned men having always spoken the classical idiom. In that country the newspapers are the chief promoters of the literary language.—Chicago Herald.

LOG CABIN SUCCESS.

What of the young men?

Robert Garrett's father left him a fortune of twenty millions. He was from childhood reared in luxury; he received a splendid education with an especial training into a thorough knowledge of railroad management and was expected to succeed his father as a railroad king.

Within three years after the responsibilities which his fathers death threw upon him were assumed, he is reported a broken down man, with mind and health permanently shattered.

George Law is another young man left with millions of money, who is reported among the "wrecks." His father, bred a stone mason, was of gigantic size and strength, with commensurate brain power, so he became a great contractor, then a railroad king and left half a dozen millions for his son to dissipate. The young man is a success as a dissipator.

The founders of both of these great estates were born in the most humble walks of life, grew strong, mentally and physically, by simple living and honest labor and developed into financial giants. Their sons were reared in the lap of luxury and developed into intellectual pigmies.

The great men of our country have not, as a rule, come from the elegant mansions of the cities, but from the Log Cabins of the rural district. Simple ways of living, freedom from dissipation and enervating pleasures, simple remedies for disease, effective and which leave no poison in the system, develope brawny, b ainy men, who compell the world to recognize their strength and power.

The wholesome, old-fashioned Log Cabin remedies are the safest and surest for family use. Our grandmothers knew how to prepare the teas and syrups of roots, herbs and balsams which drive disease out of the system by natural methods and leave no after ill effects. The most potent of these old-time remedies were, after long and searching investigation, secured by H. H. Warner of safe cure fame, and are now put out for the "healing of the nations" in the Warner's Log Cabin remedies.

Regulate the regulator with Warner's Log Cabin sarsaparilla and with pure blood giving health, strength, mental and bodily vigor, you may hope to cope successfully with the most gigantic financial problems of the age, without wrecking health and manhood.

Wouldn't Be Popular Today.

"Macaulay," said a talker whose conversation ranged over three generations, "did not talk, he lectured. He chose his subject, it mattered little what, and he delivered a discourse on it; poured out masses of facts, or arguments, of historical illustration. He was not witty, he had no humor, he was not a critic, as he himself confessed, he was devoid of imaginative or poetic faculty. But he had the most prodigious memory ever possessed by a human being, and on this he drew, without stint and without end." People in those days listened to him, his authority was established, his audience docile, nobody interrupted, controversy was out of the question. "Now," continued the witness, "no dinner table would stand it; he would be stopped, contradicted, his long stories vetoed; no monopoly or monopolist is tolerated. If you wanted to know about Queen Anne you could go home and read a cyclopædia."—London Cor. New York Tribune.

Do We Really Save Time?

The faster we go the faster we want to go. We go as fast in four hours today as our forefathers went in forty-eight, and yet railroad traveling is so slow and such a waste of time. It is only a question of time, however, when railroad trains will carry passengers so fast that sensible folks will take to stage riding just to see something of the world they live in. Time is really not so much of an object as people believe. We don't save much time by all our modern appliances after all, for we get there so early we have to waste it in some other way. The only people who really gain by cable cars and things are youngsters who are courting. Husbands don't want to get home, and even the young fellow in love stops to have another drink because the cars go every two minutes. We get everywhere so easily now that there is no fun in going anywhere.—San Francisco Chronicle "Undertones."

Japanese Love of Flowers.

The love for flowers is innate in every Japanese, and the poor coolie, who draws one for miles in a jinrickisha, is as enthusiastic and as deeply stirred over a flower show as one of the upper classes.

Instead of stopping to rest after a long run to one of these suburban flower shows, the coolie spends all of his time admiring, exclaiming over and talking about the flowers, and my particular coolie the other day made me go here and there to see this and that marvel, and walk back and forth to compare and review the superb flowers. There was no doubt but that he understood, appreciated and felt the beauty and sentiment of the exquisite peonies far more than we did, and it seemed cruel that such a really refined, æsthetic soul should have to run like a pony in the shafts of a jinrickisha.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Relics of the Seashore.

The relics of a sea washed beach are a strange study, Here you pick up a bottle—there a can—here a basket—there a box—here an old hat or cap—there a boot or shoe—here a great spike—there a bit of rope—here a piece of cabin gilding—there a bit of stout planking. The sea never rests. It brings in and it carries out. The beach one day is shelving. The next run of the tide cuts it full of runs and ravines. One tide brings in a splintered spar—the next carries it far out to sea. Where there is a great bed of oyster and clam shells to prevent you bathing today, there may be only smooth hard packed sand to-morrow.—Atlantic City Letter.

SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, NOVEMBER 3, 1888.

Communications upon matters of local or general interest solicited.

DRAWING TO A CLOSE.

THE exciting National contest between the two great political parties of the United States is drawing to a close. Before another issue of the INDEX-TRIBUNE the battle will have been fought and the victory made known all over the civilized world by the electric bands which joins together the Eastern and Western Hemispheres. The contest now going on has been one of the most stubbornly contested political battles that has been fought between the Democratic and Republican parties for many years. Both are contending for the mastery and—the offices.

At this time it is hard to foretell the result. In the Presidential race of 1884 there were four candidates in field, to-wit: Cleveland, Blaine, Butler and St. John. (We beg the pardon of the ladies for not including Belva Lockwood, as the few votes she received cut little or no figure in that contest.) On that occasion 10,048,061 popular votes were polled. Of these Cleveland (Dem.), received 4,911,017; Blaine (Rep.), 4,848,334; Butler (Greenbacker), 133,825; St. John (Prohibitionist), 151,809. By this it will be seen that Cleveland's plurality over Blaine was 62,683. It will also be noted that the combined vote of Blaine, St. John and Butler exceeds that of Cleveland by 222,651.

In the present contest the side show business will cut a very insignificent figure, and the two great parties will absorb most of those votes which went for St. John and Butler four years ago. But in just what proportion it is hard to determine. More Democrats voted for Butler than Republicans, while in the case of St. John it was just the reverse. The tariff question, the principal issue of the present campaign, has driven almost every other public question into obscurity for the time being, and when the contest will have been ended what the American people don't know about tariff won't be worth knowing.

DR. MANLOVE, Viticultural Commissioner for the Sacramento District, reports that the drying of wine grapes, has been a great success in his district, for all those who had dried them had received satisfactory prices. He reports that 3½ cents per pound is now offered for dried grapes, and that the supply was not equal to the demand. He predicts that unless satisfactory prices were received next year for fresh grapes, that the whole crop of wine grapes in his section would be dried.

THE Viticultural Commission has decided to make an exhibit of wines and brandies at the forthcoming Paris Exposition. The collection will be intended to represent the State as a whole, and not individual producers or dealers. Those wishing to make an exhibit of their wines for competition will be invited to forward such an exhibit to the commission under their own names.

THE President has issued a proclamation designating Thursday, November 29th, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer.

Pruning in Autumn.

An experienced grape culturist, in Popular Gardening, for the benefit of propagaters, says: I would, when pruning in autumn or winter, preserve as much of the well-ripened wood as possible and after cutting into lengths of about one foot, bury in boxes of sand and place in a cool cellar until spring, when they can be placed outside, choosing a moist and somewhat shaded situation. Plant in mellow soil in a slit made by a spade and firm the earth well about them. Keep them in rows eight or ten inches apart, and five or six apart in the row. If possible, let each cutting have three buds, one at the top, one at the bottom and a third in the middle, to be left at the surface of the ground when the cutting is planted. Thus treated no mulching is required, but they must be kept free from weeds.

The Occidental Hotel is a first-class resort.

Remarkable Grape Vines.

Lovers of grape lore may be interested in a brief account of some of the most remarkable vines which are now in existence in England, and producing tons of grapes of the finest quality annually. Among these, varieties of the Black Hamburg, which may be considered as the national grape and the gardener's friend, are the most numerous. The vine at Hampton Court, although not the oldest, is perhaps the best known to the general public, and on that account is worthy of the first place in this record. It was planted in 1769, and was raised from a cutting taken from a large vine at the Valentine House, Essex. Its girth is now 42 inches, and it fills a house 66 feet long and 30 feet wide. For the past hundred years it has been an object of great interest to grape-growers and the public, who marvel at this fine specimen of extension training. It is still in excellent health, and produces from 1,200 to 1,800 small bunches annually. In 1822 the girth of stem was 13 inches, and the produce in one year amounted to 2,200 bunches of one pound each. William Cobbett, in his description of it fifty years ago, says: "There is a vine in the King's garden which for half a century produced annually nearly a ton of grapes." George III must have been a good judge of the quality, as he enjoyed the fruit for fifty years. The vine at Cumberland Lodge, which is now about seventy-five years old, is much larger than the Hamburg, at Hampton Court. It was originally planted in a small pit, which it soond filled; then a house was erected over it, and enlarged from time to time, until its present dimensions are 133 feet in length and 20 feet in width. The circumference of the stem is 3 feet 6 inches. where it branches into two rods. Each of these again break into two stems, which extend the whole length of the house, and cover every part of the trellis with branches. These branches are pruned on the close spur system, the space, 2,500 feet of trellis, for extension having long since been filled. Its produce exceeds 1,200 pounds. The houses in which these two veterans are grown are heated by flues, but the vines are allowed to come on with the increasing warmth of the season, consequently little fire-heat is used. A worthy descendant of the Hamburg at Cumberland Lodge may be seen at Sillwood Park, near Ascot. It is upward of fifty years old, and fills a house 120 feet in length, with a rafter of twelve feet. The vine planted in the center is about three feet in circumference, and throws out eight lateral branches, which are trained horizontally the whole length of the house. These rods furnish the bearing wood, which covers 1,500 feet of trellis, and produces about one thousand eight hundred bunches of grapes annually.—Cassell's Popular Gardening.

Gentlemen—I have a daughter now seven years of age who, when about three years of age, showed a severe case of scrofula on the side of her neck, the usual swelling and bumps appeared, and with a view to curing her, we began using S. S. S. The result was wonderful, and I and my wife now stand ready to indorse the great curative powers of your medicine.

Alarming Symptom.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., June 18, 1888.

The Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga:

Gentlemen—Between five and six years ago boils and carbuncles appeared upon me to an extremely disagreeable and alarming extent. My general health seemed good, but there was every indication of a riotous condition of my blood. The boils gave me great trouble and pain. Physicians' treatment did not seem to avail, and finally I decided to give your S. S. S. a trial. Before the first bottle gave out I noticed the improvement. The boils and carbuncles disappeared, and with the six bottles I quit. I was then perfectly well, and ever since that time my blood has given every evidence of perfect purity. I attribute my complete cure to your medicine alone.

NEW TO-DAY.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, causing distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, a faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet efficiently. It tones the stomach, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, banishes headache, and refreshes the mind.

Distress After Eating

Heartburn

Sick Headache

Sour Stomach

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. After eating I would have a faint or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble was aggravated by my business, painting. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, which did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced." GEORGE A. A WOMAN'S WAY.

A Startling Business Proposition.

A little over six weeks ago Mrs. Fowler of 327 Ellis street, San Francisco, stopped in at a leading city druggist's to ask what effect Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, about which she had heard so much recently, would have in cases of dyspepsia and sick headache. She was assured that in most cases it would relieve both. She was, however, so incredulous that finally the druggist gave her a bottle, not to be paid for unless it effected a cure. A proposition so startlingly practical has seldom if ever before, been made. The following just received is the convincing conclusion, and tells its own story:

San Francisco, February 8, 1888.

DEAR SIR: I write to admit that, notwithstanding my misgivings, Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla did all that you promised. I had tried so many prescriptions, to no purpose, that I had come to believe nothing would relieve my dyspepsia and sick headaches, but I have not had a return of either since I commenced taking it. I believe I am permanently cured, but will, out of an abundance of caution, continue to take it regularly for a while yet. You have my permission to make this public, for it is my belief that a remedy that will cure dyspepsia and prevent sick headaches should be generally known. Respectfully,

Mrs. M. Fowler,
327 Ellis street.

A LUCKY TRIAL.

DEAR SIR: It affords me great pleasure to send you this voluntary statement of my experience in testing the merits of Joy's Sarsaparilla. For the past five years I have been troubled with an exceedingly sluggish liver, and within the past two years it has brought within its trail a thoroughly disordered stomach, including loss of appetite and distress after eating, pains in the back and kidneys, and boils around my neck and face. I have tried several remedies which are advertised as specially for the liver, and never could get more than temporary relief of about a week or two. I was recommended to try a bottle of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla as a test, and while taking the first bottle I became convinced of its merits for I could feel it was working a change in me. I have taken five bottles, and think that this time my troubles have left me. Everything is working full and regular, in fact it has revitalized, purified and breed me up generally. I feel like a new man. You great perfect liberty to use this as you see fit, or you can refer whom you please to.

W. H. Rennick, corner Third and Market streets, San Francisco.

Hon. J. K. Luttrell and J. D. Connolly of Occidental, the well-known Supervisor, will speak at Union Hall this evening on behalf of the Democratic party and its nominees. Both gentlemen are pleasing speakers and are bound to draw a crowd.

The residents of the southeastern portion of the valley have sent a petition to the Postmaster General at Washington praying for the establishment of a Postoffice at Schellville at the junction of the Santa Rosa and Carquinez and Sonoma Valley railroads.

Agua Caliente—The new bridge at this place leads direct to the Express and Postoffice, also to Badger's Cash Store. Constantly on hand furniture and bedding, staple groceries and general merchandise, thoroughbred poultry, and eggs for hatching. Best goods and lowest prices. +

Congressman T. L. Thompson was in town last Tuesday, and paid this office a friendly visit. Mr. Thompson is a self-made man, having worked his way up in the world from a printer's devil to the editorial chair, from which he was called two years ago to serve the people in the lower House of Congress.

On Monday evening last Mrs. Howe, wife of ex-Senator Howe, had her left hand badly cut by a hanging lamp, which became detached from its fastenings and falling struck her on the hand. In its descent the glass shade was broken and a piece of the glass penetrated the flesh, severing a small artery. Dr. Lawrence was sent for who bound up the wound, which although quite painful is not serious.

A rumor having been circulated in this community to the effect that Capt. P. N. Stofen, the Democratic nominee for County Treasurer, had stated "that no Democrat ought to scratch his county ticket," that gentleman publishes a card in another column, denying that he ever made such a remark. He also offers $50 to any person who will make affidavit or produce evidence that he ever gave utterance either privately or publicly to the language imputed to him. This prompt denial of Capt. Stofen ought to convince every fair-minded man that there is no truth whatever in a story, which has evidently been circulated by some mischievous person for the purpose of injuring the Captain among his personal Republican friends.

THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEES.

They are Accorded a Grand Ovation by the Sonoma People.

The visit of the Democratic nominees to Sonoma last Tuesday evening was the occasion for one of the largest and most enthusiastic Democratic demonstrations held in this city during the campaign.

At an early hour in the evening a torchlight procession headed by the Sonoma Valley Band and a delegation of about thirty ladies marched through the principal streets, which were brilliantly illuminated by red-lights and Roman candles. Upon reaching the Union Hotel the procession halted and filed into the large and spacious hall, which had been most beautifully decorated by Mrs. P. N. Stofen, Miss Mattie Goodman, Miss Willie Akers and other ladies.

As soon as the large crowd had been accomodated with seats, the chairman of the meeting, J. B. Small, called the assemblage to order who introduced Judge A. P. Moore, nominee for Auditor and Recorder, who made a few appropriate remarks, and promised if re-elected to conduct the office to the satisfaction of the people.

John S. Taylor, candidate for Sheriff, was next presenteded to the meeting and judging by the reception he received appeared to be quite popular.

L. W. Juilliard, nominee for County Clerk; John O'Hara, candidate for Supervisor; Capt. P. N. Stofen, nominee for Treasurer; John Tivnen, candidate for Coroner and Public Administrator, were each presented in their turn and warmly welcomed.

Hon. Robt. Howe, nominee for the Assembly was then introduced. He was received with rounds of applause. Mr. Howe is a pleasing speaker and his half-hour's speech was listened to with marked attention, and when he retired it was evident that he had made many friends by his remarks.

George Pearce, made the closing speech, which occupied an hour and a half in delivery, after which the meeting closed with three cheers for Cleveland and Thurman and the Democratic County nominees.

The Meeting at Agua Caliente.

The Republican meeting at Agua Caliente last Wednesday evening was largely attended. Agua Caliente is the banner Republican precinct of Sonoma Valley and in consequence great enthusiasm prevailed. Ringing speeches were made by Albert G. Burnett, nominee for District Attorney, and M. K. Cady, candidate for Supervisor. An incident of the meeting was the reading by Mr. Cady of a letter written by Gen. Jo Hooker of Lookout Mountain fame, who years ago lived where is now the town of Agua Caliente recommending the promotion of Col. Harrison, who is now the standard bearer of the Republican party, for gallant and meritorious conduct on the field of battle.

Hymeneal.

Miss Eloisa Pauli, a young lady well-known in this valley, daughter of the late G. T. Pauli, was married in New York on the 17th of last month to Mr. Harry J. Eaton of that city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father White. The wedding was a quiet affair, only a few relatives and friends of the contracting parties being invited to witness the ceremony. The bride was born and raised in this city. She is endowed with all those qualities that go to make up a good and faithful wife, and we have no doubt that Mr. Eaton fully appreciates the jewel he has secured. We wish the young couple a long life and prosperous career.

Sudden Death.

John D. Patton, for many years a resident of this valley, died very suddenly at his home near Glen Ellen last Monday morning. Deceased was apparently in the enjoyment of excellent health up to the day of his death. At an early hour in the morning while lying in bed he was heard to scream as if in distress and upon one of his children going to his assistance he was found to be dead. Heart disease is the supposed cause of his sudden taking off. Mr. Patton was an old hunter and well known in Sonoma Valley. He leaves a wife and eight children. Deceased was born in Missouri and was 62 years of age.

Mrs. Lucas' Will.

The will of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Lucas was filed for probate in the Superior Court Monday. The real estate is valued at $4,000, and cash deposited in the Santa Rosa Bank amounting to $1,877.97, and farming implements valued at $590. She bequeathed to her son, C. S. Lucas $2,500; to her son Frank Lucas $1,000; to Mrs. Cornelia Jones, all books belonging to the deceased, with watch and chain and all her clothing; to Miss Nellie B. Lucas, her sable fur, silverware and household furniture, and as Nellie B. Lucas is a minor, she appoints Edward Ralkey, of Baltimore, as her guardian. The rest of the estate is to be equally divided among the sons and daughters after all fees and expenses are settled. L. W. Burris is appointed executor of the estate.—Republican.

The Union Hotel is first class in every respect. *

ST. FRANCIS' CHURCH FAIR.

It Closes After a Most Successful Run of Five Days.

The Catholic Fair closed last Monday evening after a run of five days. Financially and socially it was a grand success. The drawing for the various prizes took place on the closing night and resulted as follows:

No. 157—Wins the $10 gold piece.
No. 238—Three cords of wood.
No. 89—Silver Castor.
No. 193—Picture of Archbishop Riordan.
No. 188—Silver Watch.
No. 262—China tea set.
No. 58—One bbl flour.
No. 8—Gold ring.
No. 55—Set of Carvers.
No. 94—Crayon portrait of Father Sullivan.
No. 6—Jersey cow.
No. 217—Bed-room set.
No. 215—Building lot.

Those holding any of the above numbers may have the prizes by applying at the residence of Father Sullivan.

The Olive in Sonoma Valley.

Col. G. F. Hopper of Sobre Vista Farm, located a few miles west of Sonoma, in giving his experience with the Mission and Picholine varieties of olives, says: In 1880 I bought from Mr. West of Stockton 50 Picholine olive trees; these were planted on the hillside in good rich loamy soil and have been well cultivated each year. This is the first year that any of them have borne fruit—a few trees having a few olives on them, and the berries are small. In land adjoining this, I planted in 1875 or 1876, about 100 Mission olive cuttings. The growth of these has been very fine and the trees have been bearing for the last eight yeas, the crop being heavier each year. They are free from all pest except a little of the black scale, which made its appearance some two years ago; was soon overcome by an application of a wash of concentrated lye, whale oil soap and sulphur, applied at 130° F. in July. The following October we gave the trees a washing of sal-soda and water at the same temperature. The trees are planted 24 feet apart. The Mission trees planted in 1875 are from ten to twelve inches in diameter, and the Picholine planted in 1880, the largest, are about four inches in diameter."

Rest That Rests.

Many women never rest. They seem not to understand what rest means. To throw one's self down with a newspaper or a book is not rest; it is only a change of occupation. To sit down and keep the fingers flying over some sort of fancywork, as it one were pursued by a demon of unrest, is certainly not rest.

But to lie at full length upon a hard surface, arms extended at the sides, head back, with no pillow, eyes closed, all cares and worries dismissed—this is rest. This will smooth away wrinkles in face and in temper; will give an air of repose to the tired, anxious, nervous woman; this will take away many an ache and straighten out rounded shoulders and craned necks.

English girls, who are famous walkers, are taught to lie down a few moments whenever they come in from their tramps. If Americans would learn the value of lying down frequently, say two or three times a day, they would have twice as much go-ahead and power to go ahead as they are now famous for.

Effect of Spraying.

Last year, says the El Dorado Republican, two of our horticulturists tried the experiment of fruit spraying with most satisfactory results. L. M. Davis sprayed 500 or 600 Bartlett pear trees with a solution of one pound of Paris green in 160 gallons of water. He found that this solution killed the pear slug and produced no visible effect upon the fruit foliage, and, although he only sprayed the trees once, he found it beneficial to the fruit. Spraying with this solution costs about three mills to the tree besides the labor and expense for a pump. Earl Norton and his sister, Mrs. Delaney, sprayed last year about 2,000 pear and apple trees using a solution of Paris green, one pound to 100 gallons of water. Although they only sprayed the trees once, yet the results were very satisfactory. An apple orchard that was sprayed yielded 150 boxes, and the year before, without spraying, only 29 boxes.

A Warning.

The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the Throat and Lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing Consumption and to the head, causing Catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your Throat, Lungs or Notsrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief.

Glen Ellen Gossip.

M. Byrne, candidate for Coroner, was in town last Saturday.

Jno T. Peters is putting on a new roof and otherwise improving the polling place.

Mrs. Green Hastings was taken suddenly ill last week, but is now much improved.

Hans Kohler of Kohler & Frohling, wine dealers in San Francisco, came up on Monday's train.

The legal part of this town that, is to say Justice and Constable, were busily engaged in a criminal suit Tuesday.

A sign printer visited Los Guilicos last week and left quite an impression there in the way of new signs, etc. OLD TIMER.

Local Viticultural Inspector.

Wm. F. Humphrys has been appointed local resident Viticultural Inspector for the Sonoma District, which is composed of the following counties, viz: Marin, Sonoma, Lake, Mendocino, Humboldt, Del Norte, Trinity and Siskiyou. He is on a tour of inspection at present and paid us a friendly visit yesterday. Mr. Humphrys was in the employ of the State Board of Viticulture for the last eight years and is therefore thoroughly acquainted with viticultural matters, and the Commission have made a good selection for an Inspector of this District. Mr. Humphrys is an old Californian and has been a resident of Petaluma for the past six months. He wrote up the exhibits at the Petaluma Fair held last August, which appeared in the columns of the "Pacific Rural Press" dated September 8th, and also the Sonoma Exhibit at the Mechanics' Fair held at San Francisco soon after, which appeared in the "Santa Rosa Republican."

County Cullings.

The County Clerk issued twenty-one marriage licenses last month.

Mrs. Geo. A. Johnson of Santa Rosa, wife of Attorney General Johnson, died at the residence of her son in Sacramento Friday afternoon of last week.

Mrs. F. McG. Martin, the lady Superintendent of Schools of this county, has visited fifty-two schools the past few months. In making these visits she has traveled over 550 miles over good, bad and indifferent roads.

M. Truett, formerly of Cloverdale, a brakeman on the San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad, fell from a moving train of flat cars at Petaluma, last Tuesday morning, and received injuries which proved fatal a few hours after the accident.

Henry Demetz, a confectioner of Santa Rosa, committed suicide in that town last Saturday morning by shooting himself in the head with a pistol. Domestic trouble is supposed to be the cause of the rash act. Deceased was a native of Germany, aged 47 years.

On Sunday night last the Salvation Army at Petaluma while holding services on Main street were rotten-egged. The army has been in that town about two years and have become somewhat of a nuisance and the citizens, it is said, are determined to drive them out of the town.

Queer People.

This is the title of the latest, and by all odds the most charming book for little people we have ever seen. Its fables, or stories, are delightful, but the illustrations are simply immense.

The author, Palmer Cox, is a new star in the juvenile firmament, but he shines with unique brilliancy. His charming fables rival those of the world famed Æsop, and he outshines that celebrated literary comet by his inimitable illustrations. He dresses up his birds, animals, insects, giants, fairies, goblins, etc., in grotesque style and makes them reason, talk, dance, and cut up all sorts of the oddest pranks imaginable, affording infinite delight, as well as excellent instruction to the young. The issue of his book "Queer People" has brought a perfect ovation of praise from the brightest men in the land. For instance, Gen. Clinton B. Fisk says: "It has set my children wild with delight," and Col. Russell H. Conwell, the famous lecturer says: "Don't send me another such a book, for I can't get my children to bed."

The famous statesman diplomat, and wit, Sunset Cox, says: "The Kweer Kapers are simply incomparable," while the distinguished theologian, Dr. Howard Crosby, says: "They have the fascination that belongs to Æsop and Uncle Remus," and the venerable poet, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, writes, "I am sorry I have not a nursery full of little folks to enjoy its bright pictures and stories."

Æsop's fables are enjoyed by old and young and are quoted by the greatest, orators and surely these equally charming stories, so profusely and exquisitely illustrated, will charm young and old for generations to come.

The sale of this book will surely be enormous. It is published by the well-known house of Hubbard Bros., Phila., Chicago and Kansas City to whom any persons desiring an agency should apply.

W. I. ROBINSON.

Ten Reasons Why Voters Should Support Him for County Recorder

[Cloverdale Reveille.]

I. He is athorough book-keeper and an elegant scribe.

II. His many years experience as Station Agt. for the S. F. & N. P. R. R., and Western Union Telegraph operator, has fitted him especially for such an office as Auditor and Recorder.

III. He has been a resident of Sonoma county for many years and has never filled any county office.

IV. He is a young man of family and being capable he is deserving of support.

V. He is a quiet, industrious man, trustworthy to the utmost and temperate in all things.

VI. He belongs to no clique, is not put forward by any boss to have the office for political patronage.

VII. He has been a Republican in politics from honest convictions, but never took any active part among politicians, and stands well among all parties.

VIII. He has lived a plain life among his fellow men, and now comes out as a candidate that he may be placed in a position where his natural ability is at its fort and his ambition direct.

IX. Especially to the citizens of our district. We should have a personal pride in having a representative from this district in the corps of county officials.

X. And last but not least, he needs the office and the office needs him.

Which Was It? Bacon or Shakspear.

The authorship of the dramatic productions attributed to the last of the abovenamed is agitating literary circles to the very centre, but affects the practical masses far less than the momentous question, how to regain or preserve health, that essential of bodily and mental activity, business success and the "pursuit of happiness." We can throw far more light on this latter subject than the most profound Shakesperian can on the question first propounded. If the system is depleted, the nerves shaky; if indigestion or constipation bothers one at times, or constantly; if the skin is yellow and the tongue furred as in biliousness; if there are premonitory twinges of oncoming rheumatism or neuralgia; if the kidneys are inactive—use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the finest recuperant of an age prolific in beneficial and successful remedies. Remember, if malaria threatens or afflicts, that it neutralizes the poison and fertilizes the system.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1888.

THE FARMER FEEDETH ALL.

My lord rides through his palace gate,
My lady sweeps along in state,
The sage thinks long on many a thing
And the maiden muses on marrying;
The colonel bargains merrily,
The sailor plows the foaming sea,
The huntsman kills the good red deer
And the soldier wars without a fear.
But fail to each whate'er befall,
The farmer he must feed them all.

Smith hammereth cheerily the sword,
Priest preacheth pure and holy word,
Dame Alice worketh broidery well,
Clerk Richard tales of love can tell,
The tap wife sells her foaming beer,
Dan Fisher fisheth in the mere,
And courtiers ruffle, strut and shine,
While pages bring the Gascon wine.
But fail to each whate'er befall,
The farmer he must feed them all.

Man builds his castles fair and high,
Whatever river runneth by,
Great cities rise in every land,
Great churches show the builder's hand,
Great arches, monuments and towers,
Fair palaces and pleasing bowers,
Great work is done, be't here and there,
And well man worketh everywhere,
But work or rest, whate'er befall,
The farmer he must feed them all.

—Charles G. Leland.

A Woman's Description of Herself.

In the memoirs of Prince Adam Czartoeyski, just published, his wife, Princess Elizabeth, thus describes herself: "I was never handsome, but I have often been pretty, and I have beautiful eyes, and as all my feelings are reflected in them the expression on my face is always interesting. My complexion is white enough to be almost brilliant when I blush; a smooth forehead does not make my face ugly, and my nose completes the symmetry of my features. My mouth is large, my teeth white, my smile amiable, and the shape of my face a graceful oval. I have enough hair to make an easy and becoming headdress. My figure is elegant, my bust perhaps too thin, my hands ugly, but my feet are charming, and there is much grace in my movements. I have an extreme desire to please, and am skillful in showing both my physical and mental qualities to the best advantage. Though vain and ill tempered, I am endowed with such tact that I never do anything which does not give pleasure," etc.—Literary World.

The Riotous Deputies of France.

I have seen lively sessions in Albany and Washington, but never anything that approached the riot at the chamber of deputies at Paris on the day that Boulanger made his speech. The instant he rose he was greeted with hoots, sneers, cheers, gibes, taunts, giggles, cat calls and huzzas. The chamber looked and sounded as though it was inhabited by a crew of rabid cats. Respectable old gentlemen shrieked, pounded their desks and moaned in a species of frenzy, and a running fire of abusive epithets was kept up during all the speech, and, when it was finished, there was a silly affectation of derisive laughter. Anybody but a politician would have challenged half a dozen men before the speech was finished. Dignity seems incompatible with legislation. The reichstag in Berlin is almost as prominent an illustration of personal abuse and savage wrangling as the British parliament.—Blakely Hall's Letter.

Two Portraits of Napoleon.

The two portraits of Napoleon with which the general public is most familiar are those known as the Delaroche and the Fontainebleau pictures. Delaroche's portrait represents the emperor in his cabinet, standing, with his face half turned; the face is placid and calm, like that of a man who had not a care in the world. On the contrary, the Fontainebleau portrait, said to have been taken after the battle of Leipsic and subsequent to his first abdication, represents a man oppressed by gloomy thoughts. The lips are firm set; the eyes look out from their depths with a mournful expression. It is not the look of a man who is beaten, however; for in a year this same man was back from Elba and fought the historic campaign of the Hundred Days.—Chicago Tribune.

Baking Soda and Saleratus.

Bicarbonate of soda is very often put up in packages and labeled saleratus, but this is an adulteration, or rather a fraud, as real saleratus is the bicarbonate of potash and is obtained from entirely a different source. There is, however, an easy method of distinguishing between the two. If some of the suspected substance be sprinkled pretty thickly over some loose cotton and saturated with alcohol and the alcohol set on fire, the flame will be bright yellow if the substance is baking soda, and purplish if it is real saleratus.—Anti-Adulteration Journal.

The Life of the Leg.

The perfect leg, like the life of man, suffers many changes in its career. The infant's leg is chubby and of uncertain shape and promises. Its superfluous flesh is apt to leave it at 6 years old, and ten or eleven years must pass before its curves grow picturesque. At 20 it fulfills its destiny, and remains perfect in a healthy figure until nearly middle age. At 50 it begins its decline, which may be marked by scragginess, but is more often distinguished by a settling of the fat below the calf, so that the leg is all one size from knee to shoe top.—New York Sun.

Studying Heated Metal.

A French microscopist has made a new application of photography. Being unable otherwise to examine the structure of heated steel, he photographed the white hot metal and then placed the negative under the microscope.—Arkansaw Traveler.

To Be Avoided.

Like repulsive features, awkwardness hurts a person's business. I shun, first the man of slovenly person; second, the totally unreliable man; third, the awkward, bungling man.—Winters Hewit in Globe-Democrat.

"NASAL VOICES, CATARRH AND FALSE TEETH."

A prominent English woman says the American women all have high, shrill, nasal voices and false teeth.

Americans don't like the constant twitting they get about this nasal twang, and yet it is a fact caused by our dry stimulating atmosphere, and the universal presence of catarrhal difficulties

But why should so many of our women have false teeth?

That is more of a poser to the English. It is quite impossible to account for it except on the theory of deranged stomach action caused by imprudence in eating and by want of regular exercise.

Both conditions are unnatural.

Catarrhal troubles everywhere prevail and end in cough and consumption, which are promoted by mal-nutrition induced by deranged stomach action. The condition is a modern one, one unknown to our ancestors who prevented the catarrh, cold, cough and consumption by abundant and regular use of what is known as Warner's Log Cabin cough and consumption remedy and Log Cabin sarsaparilla, two old fashioned standard remedies handed down from our ancestors, and now exclusively put forth under the strongest guarantees of purity and efficacy by the world-famed makers of Warner's safe cure. These two remedies plentifully used as the fall and winter seasons advance, together with an occasional use of Warner's Log Cabin rose cream, to strengthen and protect the nasal membranes, give a positive assurance of fredom, both from catarrh and thoge dreadful and if neglected, inevitable consequences, pneumonia, lung troubles and consumption, which so generally and fatally prevail among our people.

Comrade Eli Fisher, of Salem, Henry Co., Iowa, served four years in the late war and contracted a disease called consumption by the doctors. He had frequent hemorrhages. After using Warner's Log Cabin cough and consumption remedy, he says, under date of Jan. 19th, 1888: "I do not bleed at the lungs any more, my cough does not bother me, and I do not have any more smothering spells." Warner's Log Cabin rose cream cured his wife of catarrh and she is "sound and well."

Of course we do not like to have our women called nose talkers and false teeth owners, but these conditions can be readily overcome in the manner indicated.

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Sult, Druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: "I can reccommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of 10 years' standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Bellville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidney or Blood. Only a half dollar a bottle at E. Wegner's Drug Store.

A Woman's Discovery.

"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus write W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Get a free trial bottle at E. Wegner's Drug Store.

Consumption Surely Cured

MISCELLANEOUS.

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of woman's peculiar maladies.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar ailments.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, from whatever cause arising, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred symptoms, its use, in small doses, will prove very beneficial.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is equally efficacious and valuable in its effects when taken for those disorders and derangements incident to that later and most critical period, known as "The Change of Life."

"Favorite Prescription," when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative dose of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets (Little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases. Their combined use also removes blood taints, and abolishes cancerous and scrofulous humors from the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

Large bottles (100 doses) $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

For large, illustrated Treatise on Diseases of Women (160 pages, paper-covered), send ten cents in stamps. Address,
